MEDITATION

Sunday, July 6, 2025

Fourteenth Sunday in Ordinary Time

*Whatever town you enter and they welcome you . . .
(Luke 10:8)*

Imagine that you're one of the disciples. You enter a small town, stand in the marketplace, and proclaim, "The kingdom of God is at hand for you" (Luke 10:9). How do you think the villagers would react? Would they be excited and want to hear more? Would they ignore you? Or would they laugh and run you out of town?

In today's Gospel, Jesus speaks to the seventy-two disciples he has chosen for a preaching mission. He wants to give them realistic expectations: the people they would visit might welcome their message—but they also might reject it. He tells them that they are to proclaim the good news, but the outcome of their preaching is out of their hands. And what an outcome it was! Even demons submitted to them (Luke 10:17)!

In the same way, we don't know how people will react when we try to share our faith. So we tend to overthink things. Will they be open to listening to my message? Or will they politely dismiss me and say that they are not interested? But whatever the case, our decision to tell people about God's kingdom shouldn't be based on how we think they'll respond. Our responsibility is simply to extend an invitation.

Even when it seems that someone has rejected our message, we can't see into the future. Years later, someone may turn to Christ because they recalled something we said to them about our love for the Lord. Something similar may have happened to the townspeople who initially rejected the disciples' message. Perhaps later, when they heard the news that Jesus had risen from the dead, they remembered the disciples' visit and came to believe in him.

So lay aside any discouragement you might feel if you don't see your efforts bearing fruit. Whatever happens, rejoice that you may have done what God has called you to do and that your name, too, is written in heaven (Luke 10:20)!

*"Jesus, help me to do my part
And entrust the rest to you!"*
